Camp Commanders Corner ~ by Tom Helmantoler

Brothers and Sisters:

As spring becomes summer, let me wish everyone a happy summer season and an enjoyable vacation, should you be able to take one. Happy Independence Day -Fourth of July, as well. I hope you were able to join us at Mt. Hope for our Memorial Day celebration with the SCV, or to attend one of the other Memorial Day events in the area. My thanks to Barbara Mondt of DUVCW, who did all the work for Our Honored Soldier, Jesse Bennett, buried at GAR Hill. Also, thanks to Will Tisch, who cleaned the headstone, Roy Adair of SCV, and all the others who helped plan and participate in the day's activities. Thanks to everyone, no matter where you were that day. I would also like to encourage everyone to attend the National Encampment in August in Louisville, KY, especially if you've never attended one. They are quite well done and it's good to meet members from other parts of the country. Dates, costs and forms are in "The Banner." Please also join us for the next meeting at the historic ship, Star of India. We will be given a guided tour by Brother Mike Schooling, who is a new docent there. Further information on the meeting can be found elsewhere in the General (Pg. 7). If you've never been to the Star of India, this is a good reason to see it, as well as attend the meeting! We will also be having the Blue/Grey picnic in Coronado on June 20. It is a potluck style, afternoon event, sure to have much good food and brotherhood with our SCV cousins. As was once said, "The only thing permanent in life is change." With that in mind, I am sad to announce the resignation of Jr. Vice Commander, Monroe McBride, from that post. Brother

Monroe's employer, due to economic conditions, closed its San Diego office and transferred him to 15 May, S. AZ Vet. Mem. Cemetery, Sierra Vista. Dept. Chaplain & Camp 21 Commander Tom Helmantoler invokes Divine Blessings of Almighty God over the honored remains of Civil & Indian Wars veterans at SUVCW ceremony on the evening before their reinterment with full military honors

Sacramento. As he said to me, "The good news is I have a job. The bad news is that the job is in Sacramento." Monroe is not resigning from the Camp and will maintain his residence in Ramona, as his wife, Laurie, is a teacher there. I am actively searching for someone to fill that post, at least for the remainder of my time as your Commander. If you would like to get into the line of leadership in the Camp, or would be willing to fill the position for only the rest of the year, please contact me. PLEASE! All this brings me to an important part of this issue's message. This is not intended for the members that are regularly active in the Camp. Like most groups of our type, a relatively small number of the total membership is quite active. The problem we have is that the number active is dwindling, and the members are aging. We DESPERATLY NEED more people to become more active and help us out. We have many members that were active at one time but no longer are. It's easy to get out of the habit of participating in Camp activities and assume "someone else will do it." When Bob Lowe passed, I promised Rosemary that I wouldn't let the Camp die on my watch. I intend to fulfill that promise, but I do need your help. "Many hands make for light work" still applies here. If you haven't been coming to meetings, or are an SVR member and haven't been active, PLEASE become active again. We DO need your participation! We have had good programs over the last 18 months at meetings, and will continue to do so. Honoring our Union ancestors at ceremonial functions and events is just as important as it ever was. Our ancestors stepped up at a critical time in our nation's history and deserve to be remembered and honored as they always have. Please help us remember them as they helped us by saving the nation. Again, I do not intend to see Camp 21 die. We need to have more of our current membership be active and continue to recruit new members. Let us rededicate ourselves to the Camp. Thanks!

I remain proud to be your Commander.
In Fraternity, Charity & Loyalty,
Tom H.

From the Editor: apologies for not sending out this edition on time. There were extenuating circumstances but please know it is my aim & duty to do all I can to ensure that you receive your Camp's newsletter in a timely manner. That said, I would like to appeal to you to rally to your Camp's side & that of your editor. We need more of you to participate in Camp functions - as Commander Tom has written - and we need more of you to send in articles for publication. This is a means of being involved, even if distance, health or finances will not allow you to attend meetings or events. Please send me anything of interest regarding your adventures in exploring your ancestor's story & your own experiences visiting museums or battlefield parks. If possible, send by e-mail attachment but even if you send me a hand-printed letter, I will happily transcribe your missive into a forthcoming edition. Thanks for your assistance!

Petersburg inspired Memorial Day, Researcher Says by Katherine Calos

If you want to thank someone for the national Memorial Day commemoration, you might start with the Ladies Memorial Association of Petersburg. Their decoration of Confederate graves at Blandford Cemetery, which began June 9, 1866, inspired a Union general's wife in the spring of 1868 before the first national Decoration Day, on May 30, 1868. To James H. Ryan of Petersburg, that means Petersburg should get credit for inspiring the national Memorial Day. He has researched the connection and created the Web site MemorialDayOrigin.info to spread the word. After the Civil War ended, Gen. John A. Logan, husband of Mary Logan, was commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, the Union Army veterans' organization. When Mary Logan returned from her visit to Petersburg, she described to him the decoration of graves she had seen there. Soon after, he issued his General Order No. 11 for Union veterans to decorate graves all over the nation on May 30, a date when the whole country would be blooming with flowers. Mary Logan wrote about the discussion for the Los Angeles Daily Times in 1903, and Ryan has posted the article on his Web site. The Petersburg ladies had picked June 9 for their original decoration because it was the anniversary of the 1864 battle that began the 10-month siege of Petersburg, Ryan said. Men and boys - mostly too old or too young to be in the Confederate army - held off the Union army on June 9 until Confederate reinforcements could arrive. When Union Gen. Ulysses S. Grant finally broke through at Petersburg in April 1865, the Confederate government had to abandon Richmond. The Confederacy collapsed a week later with Gen. Robert E. Lee's surrender at Appomattox. On the anniversary of the battle of men and boys, the Ladies Memorial Association decorated the graves with flags and flowers. In March 1868, when flags from the June 1867 decoration apparently had been supplemented with fresh decorations of early spring flowers, Mary Logan took note. "The weather was balmy and spring-like, and as we passed through the rows of graves I noticed that many of them had been strewn with beautiful blossoms and decorated with small flags of the dead Confederacy," she wrote. "The actions seemed to me to be a beautiful tribute to the soldier martyrs and grew upon me while I was returning to Washington. As soon as [Gen. Logan] met me at the station I told him of the graves of the Southern soldiers in the cemetery at Petersburg. He listened with great interest and then said: 'What a splendid thought! We will have it done all over the country.'" As far as Ryan is concerned, Petersburg has an ironclad case for inspiring the national observance. "Petersburg is not the first city to have a memorial day," Ryan said. "The tradition [of decorating graves] goes back to the Trojans and Persians. There were other cities that did this same thing, probably before Petersburg." Waterloo, N.Y., where Civil War graves first were decorated in May 1866, has been recognized as the nation's official birthplace of Memorial Day. "The key thing about our connection to Memorial Day is the logical connection, the chain of events," Ryan said. "We claim to be the source of inspiration and chain of events leading to the national Memorial Day." (taken from the Civil War Philadelphia automatic digest system email of May 22, 2009)

Remains of Civil & Indian Wars Veterans Laid to Rest in Arizona

On 15 May, SVR 6th Military District Chief of Staff, Lt. & Camp 21 Bro. Will Tisch, PCC and I left the East County, drove to San Diego's airport and boarded a flight to Phoenix. Thus began our little adventure into the deserts of Arizona to participate in the re-burial of 14 Union Veterans of the famed "California Column" and more than 30 Vets from the Indian Wars who had been unearthed in downtown Tucson during an excavation for an addition to the City-County Courts Bldg in 2005. These men had all died while on active duty and had been buried between 1862 - 1884 in what was then called the "National Cemetery of Tucson," but due to the varieties of life in the wild west of the late 1800's, their graves had been built over with buildings and a parking lot. When the excavation began, it was known they would find graves but no one knew how many would eventually be found. News accounts I have read put the figure at more than 1500, mostly civilians. About 61 military graves were found and the remains were collected and stored until Sierra Vista's Southern Arizona Veterans Memorial Cemetery set aside a special area, known as the Historic Soldier's Cemetery, for these fallen few who had been all but forgotten. Arriving at the Phoenix Skyharbor airport, Will & I headed straight by bus to the rental cars, which are in their own special terminal building! After what seemed like an eternity (I even had a phone call from Kim Sayre asking where we were while we stood in line) we finally got headed south on the highway to Tucson. With Will's GPS system, chirping happily to us about staying on course, we made the drive, stopping once for a bite to eat. When we got to Sierra Vista, we went to our motel to change into uniforms, then to the cemetery to join the others for the ceremony - which had been planned by esteemed Brother, Stephen Siemsen who portrays a GAR Post Commander. Stephen is a retired Army CWO who now works for the Army at Ft. Huachuca which is adjacent to the cemetery and had charge of the remains. Present for the Friday ceremony were Camp 21 Brothers, Commander Tom Helmantoler, PDC Jerry Sayre with Kim Sayre DU-VCW, as well as Will & myself. Also present were Camp 2 Bro. Phil Caines & wife Melanie, ASUVCW. Each soldier's remains had been placed in a small wooden casket and all of the caskets were arranged in front of the dais. Brother Siemsen led the service by explaining how it came to be that we were there, I briefly addressed the gathering of perhaps 70 persons, connecting Memorial Day to this occasion, and then each of the Brothers & Sisters present read portions of the names of the dead & their units & dates of death. As each name was read, Melanie Caines, dressed as a widow, rang a bell. Of interest is that each veteran's name is known but few of the remains could be matched or identified. Following the ceremony we went to the Sierra Vista VFW Hall for their steak fry. This is the largest VFW Post in AZ & third largest anywhere. We felt very welcome and the food was quite good and too plentiful! After a good night's rest, Will & I joined Bro. Siemsen & a few others to raise a garrison-sized, 35-star National Flag. A local reenactor & SCV member, Joe Smith, fired a 12-pounder mountain howitzer in salute. Joe made all of the small wooden caskets using his time & funds. Then we all went to a favorite local bistro for breakfast and headed back to the cemetery for the big event. Before that commenced, Will & I went to the administration bldg to view a beautiful stone marker that was to have been installed on May 30, the 'Real Memorial Day,' in the Historic Soldier's portion of the cemetery. Then we joined a crowd of about 800 under a bright blue Arizona sky to witness this ceremony, along with the honorable Governor of the State, Jan Brewer. As beautiful as was this day, the ceremony unfolded before our eyes. Amidst the fitting & eloquent speeches, the highpoint - I'm sure - for all in attendance was the simultaneous folding of the 35-star flags which draped the 61 caskets by active duty members of the Army, Navy, Marines, Air Force & Coast Guard along with our very own SVR Brothers, Jerry Sayre, Phil Caines & Don Hotchkiss. Then came a massive salute by Army howitzers & echoed-taps played by two buglers. At the end of the ceremony, the caskets were carried by the same uniformed servicemen & women to their graves, their path lined with Boy Scouts and laid to rest with honors. Afterwards, I had the honor of being interviewed by a local Tucson TV station, a portion of which actually made it through the editing process & was seen that evening on Channel 9. I also had the honor of meeting Gov. Brewer who delayed her departure to mingle with the many people attending. After a fine lunch at the VFW hall, some of us enjoyed a very fine concert of 19th-century selections by the 4th Regiment Cavalry Band at the Veterans Memorial Park. Later, we drove to Tombstone where we were treated to a personal tour by Bro. Siemsen of the town cemetery (not "Boot Hill"), where there are not a few GAR graves & a prominent GAR Marker. Early Sunday morning, Will & I visited the cemetery to pay our departing respects to the men who had been laid - finally - in the kind of graves they deserved. Then it was off to Phoenix, and a fine flight home to San Diego where we drank in the intoxicating view & the sweet smell of our beautiful bay with its cool breezes so lacking in S. Arizona. It was a great trip with so many wonderful experiences. I shall not soon meet any finer people than I did on this memorable occasion. I hope one day to go back to see the Historic Soldier's Cemetery in Sierra Vista, complete with landscaping & with the new GAR marker proudly installed alongside the graves of the soldiers we had the privilege to honor. My thanks to Brother Stephen Siemsen for his faithful service in preparing the 15 May service & for acting as a most gracious host - thanks Brother ! Thanks also go to Lt. Will Tisch for his faithful assistance & many helps he gave in getting us from here to there and back again with a minimum of hassle & lots of good humor - well done Sir ! Except for one bad call by Will's GPS system (where she insisted we drive East to get to Tucson!) the little talking box performed well & even found food & water when we needed sustenance - makes you wonder how we got along without such contrivances!

I remain yours in service to the SUVCW & SVR,

OUR NEXT MEETING: Sat. June 13, 2009 NOTE Location, Date & Time !

June 13, 2009 1:00 PM

LOCATION

San Diego Maritime Museum's Star of India
1492 N. Harbor Dr.
San Diego

Our Program

Our own Camp 21 Brother Mike Schooling will conduct a tour for us of the ship, Star of India, centerpiece of the Maritime Museum's collection of historic vessels, where Mike serves as a docent.
Cost is $14/person

DIRECTIONS TO MEETING LOCATION:

The Maritime Museum of San Diego is easy to find from all freeways. It's right on the big bay, downtown on Harbor Drive. Take the Hawthorn St. Exit off N-5, turn left at Harbor Dr. or take Sassafras St. exit off S-5, merge onto Kettner Blvd, turn right at W. Laurel St., then left on N. Harbor Dr. There is coin-op parking by the ship but it is often full. There is a large municipal parking lot across the street, south of the County Admin Bldg, & there is a large parking lot at the corner of Harbor Dr. & Broadway. Please come early so you can find parking and get to the ship, ready for the tour to begin promptly at 1:00 PM. After our tour, those who wish to may reform at the Elephant & Castle Pub®, located in the Holiday Inn across from the Museum for a short business meeting & refreshments. The E&C is a British-style pub-restaurant serving typical English & American menu items at reasonable prices. Find their menu at the webpage below:
